DETAILED ACTION.Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2, 8, 12, 15, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hornsby et al. in view of Eppley.

Hornsby et al. disclose an artificial eye assembly for an animated plush toy operative to animate a portion of plush contiguous to the eye assembly comprising one or more spherical members (22) with a convex surface; at least one three-dimensional border member (32) partially surrounding and unitary with each spherical member (22), and a plush-engaging member (30) integral with each spherical member (22); a pupil and iris member (26), and a plush-animating member (40); a shaped member (42) extending from the three-dimensional eyelid member (32) and a retaining post (30).

Hornsby et al. do not disclose the spherical members having a concave surface and being transparent, and the pupil and iris inserted into the concave surface of the spherical member.

Art Unit: 3711

FIG. 7*FIG. 8

Eppley discloses an artificial eye having a transparent spherical member (clear thermoplastic material like polycarbonate) having a convex outer surface (82) and a concave surface (88); a pupil (the portion proximate reference numeral 98) and iris (the portion proximate reference numeral 98) are inserted into the concave surface (88) of the spherical member (80); (col. 7, lines 46-67 through col. 8, lines 1-28).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the spherical member as having a convex surface and a concave surface as taught by Eppley, since such a modification would allow an insert to be placed within the spherical member that may be hollow as suggested by Hornsby et al. (col. 4, line 27).

Claims 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the as applied to claim1 above, and further in view of Wintriss.

Hornsby et al., as modified by Eppley, lacks a rod interconnecting the spherical members; the rod is operable to effect coordinated movement of the spherical members; the rod is operable to effect independent movement of the spherical members.

Wintriss discloses an artificial eye assembly that is arranged for movement where one eye (1) or a pair of eyes (1) may move laterally along the axis of a shaft (2) or rotatably with respect to the shaft (2) (col. 1, lines 36-39).

Art Unit: 3711

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a rod interconnecting a pair of eyes for movement of a single eye or a pair of eyes, since such a modification would simulate a real human or animal in terms of eye movement.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 16 is allowed.

Claims 3-7, 13, 14, and 18-20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 24 December 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., the plush engaging member integral with the eye with the plush affixed to the eye for movement of the plush with the eye assembly; and the driveshaft interconnecting the two spherical bowl-shaped members and further interfacing with a cam and driveline) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

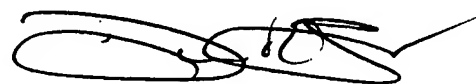

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
